

Coroners and Inquests: A Practical Course for Coroners, Judges and Magistrates

Aim:

The purpose of this course is to provide with the necessary knowledge and skills to prepare fully for investigation into deaths and conduct inquests. This virtual course will also enable senior judges to supervise coroners in their work.

The CMJA and Civil Service College have come together to organise a repeat of this well-received practical course which will explain and discuss the law and procedure of coroners.

COURSE DIRECTOR

Sir Peter Thornton QC

Formerly head of the well-known Doughty Street Chambers in London, judge at the Old Bailey and in the Court of Appeal, His Honour Sir Peter Thornton QC became the first Chief Coroner of England and Wales (2012-2016). He is now a Visiting Professor at King's College London where he lectures on coroner law and practice.

As Chief Coroner he provided national leadership for coroners, initiated extensive reforms, conducted high profile inquests and sat in the High Court on inquest appeals including the Hillsborough case. He achieved a reduction of over 50% in the number of inquests not completed within 12 months from death.

Having previously provided training for nearly 1,000 coroners and coroners' officers, Peter Thornton now advises overseas territories on their coroner services and conducts coroner and judicial training. He has recently delivered courses in The Bahamas and The Gambia. He held a seminar on inquests at the CMJA Conference in Australia in 2018 and gave a well-received keynote speech (introduced by Chief Justice Maraga of Kenya) for the CMJA in Papua New Guinea in 2019 on judicial leadership. He is a contributing editor of Jervis on Coroners, the leading textbook in the field. He is also a member of the Independent Expert Panel of the House of Commons.
